Individual Credentialing > Training Program Search Service (TPSS)

Training Program Search Service (TPSS)

ICF does not provide coach-specific training and as the accrediting body, we cannot recommend any specific training programs.

To ensure quality training, the International Coach Federation accredits or approves coach-training programs that meet its high standards. To find ICF accredited or approved programs, we suggest that you use our Training Program Search Service (TPSS) below. The search for a coach training program is a highly individual process which depends greatly on your personal preferences and goals. The TPSS is designed to give you basic information about all ICF-accredited or -approved programs.

PROGRAM DETAILS

For further information, please contact this training organization rather than the ICF office. The ICF recommends all approved programs equally and cannot recommend one program over another.
